

Jacob joined the structural dynamics branch at NASA Langley in 2018 and is responsible for finite element analysis of crash impact dynamics with a focus is in the prediction of occupant injury risk. Before joining NASA Jacob worked at KBRwyle as an occupant protection analyst, aiding in the development of occupant safety capabilities for NASA's commercial crew program.