

Adam Chattaway

- Adam has a BSc in Chemistry from the University of London.
- In 1989 he joined Kidde Research (now part of Collins Aerospace Systems) and over the last 33 years has carried out research on many of the halon replacements in all areas of aircraft fire safety. He holds over 40 patents in this field, and has written over 20 papers.
- In 2017 he was appointed as a co-chair of the United Nations Halons Technical Options Committee.
- His current role is Global Technology Lead for Kidde, part of Collins Aerospace.